SPECTACULAR 'CLEOPATRA' OPENS BALLETT NEBRASKA'S SEASON SIX

OMAHA -- One of history's most intriguing characters will help Ballet Nebraska launch its sixth season of professional dance on Friday, October 2, when it presents Cleopatra at 7:30 pm at Omaha's Orpheum Theater.

Fans will be able to see a preview of Cleopatra on Friday, September 11, when Ballet Nebraska will perform excerpts on the outdoor stage at Turner Park as part of Opera Omaha's Opera Outdoors event beginning at 7 pm.

"Cleopatra is a fascinating historical figure, renowned for her beauty, intelligence, and political adeptness," said Erika Overturff, the choreographer of Cleopatra as well as Ballet Nebraska's founder and artistic director. "She was highly educated, spoke as many as a dozen languages, and was a capable administrator who first began to rule at the age of 18. Her story is both an epic clash of empires and a deeply personal drama — an ideal showcase for ballet's ability to combine visual spectacle with powerful emotion."

Claire Goodwillie, who will dance the title role of Cleopatra, said she is looking forward to the challenge of bringing the queen's personality to life onstage. An Omaha native who has danced professionally since the age of 19, Goodwillie has been featured in ballets including Giselle, Paquita, and George Balanchine's Valse Fantaisie. But she said Cleopatra is by far the most complex character she has ever portrayed.

"I've danced characters that are evil, or flirty, or mysterious, but never one who displayed more than a single characteristic or emotion at the same time," she said. "Cleopatra displays many powerful emotions, including love, anger, betrayal, total devastation, and hopelessness, just to name a few. I'm excited to dance such a complicated character."

Tickets for Cleopatra are available from Ticket Omaha at www.ticketomaha.com; by calling 402-345-0606; or by visiting the Ticket Omaha box office at 13th and Douglas streets. For information, visit balletnebraska.org/performances .

Ballet Nebraska is the region's professional dance company. Season Six is sponsored by Omaha Steaks, with major support for Cleopatra from the Iowa West Foundation, and additional support from the Nebraska Arts Council, Nebraska Cultural Endowment, and Douglas County Visitor Improvement Fund.
